A ministerial crisis had occurred in the latter part of April in the President's Cabinet. Don Manuel Acadic, Secretary of the Interior and Foreign affairs, and Don Manuel Rensilio, Secretary of the Treasury, sent in their resignations. General Garcia, the Secretary of War, had at the same time verbally signified to the President his willingness to retire from his office. The Right Rev. Bashop Doneso, Secretary of Public Worship and instruction, had also tendered his resignation, in order to facilitate the construction of a new Cabinet.

The government commissioners have published a very interesting report upon the state of the mines in Chilo. There are 119 mines in operation, worked at 600 different places, 304 of which are yielding very profits be returned. Water is very scarce in the mines, and is obtained at a great cost. Wood commands an average price of about one cent per pound.

The total monthly yield of all these copper mines is found to be from 8,523,000 to 10,518,000 pounds of ere, returning frem sixteen to thirty-four per cent of pure metal. The general average is estimated at twenty-five per cent.

per cent.

The silver mines yield monthly 20,000 pounds of ore, returning, at the rate of forty marks (twenty pounds weight) per bar, sixty-four quintals ore. The deepest of the copper mines is the Descubridors, within the district of Algarrobo, at a depth of 154 metres.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

SUNDAY, June 8, 1862. The exports of produce, merchandise and bullion last week were considerably more than double the imports of foreign merchandise. This arises, in some part, from the very light imports of dry goods, and likewise from the large increase in the exports of produce. The imports of genera merchandise, though in excess of those of the corresponding week last year, were below the usual average. The principal items were:-

With the exception of the three items of sugar, tea and dry goods, the imports were unusually light. The tariff is beginning to tell upon our importations. It will have a most salutary effect All considerations of free trade and protection apart, this country has heretofore been in the habit of consuming far too many foreign goods. In our present circumstances our importations of foreign dry goods, hardware and other manufactures cannot be too severely restricted. The Senate has passed the general Tax bill, with but one dissentient voice-Senator Powell, of Kentucky. It is understood that the amendments which have been made to the bill by the Senate will not prove an impediment to its passage by the House in its new shape. The leaders at Washington predict confidently that the conference con mittee will, within a day or two, report a bill which will be satisfactory to both houses, and which will become a law within a very short period of time. The act, in its proposed shape, will probably yield an income of some $100,000,000 or $115,000,000 a year. It is estimated at Washington that the tariff will vield $70,000,000 more. We deem this latter estimate excessive, and cannot but think that it would be imprudent for Congress to leave the tariff in its present shape. The duties on tea, sugar, coffee, iron, lead, hides, drugs and various descriptions of hardware and dry goods ought to be increased so as to secure a revenue of $100,000,000 from customs duties. Unless the United States, at the close of the war, have a net revenue secured of $200,000,000 over and above all expenses of collection, the Treasury Department will have the painful task of reporting a deficit, instead of a surplus, each December. A very cursory examination of the financial position of the country suffices to show that no less sum than two hundred millions annually will enable the government to pay the interest on the debt, to provide a sinking fund for its extinction, and to defray the current expenses of government. This is a matter which should engage the serious attention of Congress. Mr. Chase has thus far administered the public finances with such skill, and the public of the North have had so abiding a confidence in the vitality of the nation, that the government has been able to borrow of the people $160,000.000 without any interest at all, and over $50,000,000 at 4 a 5 per cent. These large loans to government have been predicated upon the public belief that an ample revenue would be provided by taxation, direct and indirect, for the payment of the current expenses of State and for the interest on the public debt. Congress will grievously disappoint loyal people, and will place the Trea sury Department in an embarrassing position, if there be now any hesitation in securing the pro-

Since January 1 ... $19,203,955 2,896,897 20,727,448 The banks last Monday showed a specie average of $31,397,284, which was an increase of $714,524 from the week previous; a loans average of $142,671,414, being a decrease of $278,735; and a deposits average of $125,434,755, an increase o $2,831,891. To-morrow they will not probably show any change of material importance, though the specie may show a decrease. The deposits are reported as being in reality considerably have advanced considerably within a few days, which affords fair presumptive evidence that they have done well by their transactions with govern ment. In effect, the annals of finance may vainly be searched for a parallel to the wonderful suc cess of the financial policy which was shaped about a year ago by Mr. Chase, and matured wit the advice of Mr. Cisco, Mr. Vail, Mr. Ketchurs and other New York financiers. Not only has the government obtained all the money it required for the prosecution of the most expensive war on record, but the institutions and individuals who lent the money have invaria bly made a handsome profit on the operation When first the issue of irredeemable paper money was recommended to Mr. Chase in this column, it was met by a frantic outcry from the bigotted ad herents of old theories in finance, and Mr. Chase himself hesitated some time before he ventured to adopt the suggestion. Ignorant and prejudiced writers dilated on the collapse of Law's Missis sippi scheme and the French assignats, and with incredible stupidity proclaimed daily that the United States were plunging headlong into bankruptcy. Happily for the nation, both the execu tive government and Congress allowed themselves at length to be persuaded that there was no real analogy between the issue of paper based solely on the maintenance of public confidence, and the issue of paper based on a substantial sys tem of taxation; and the act authorizing th creation of a legal tender paper currency was at length passed. How well it has worked no one now requires to be informed. It has enabled the government to borrow $100,000,000 without interest, and it has provided the people with an admirable currency, at par everywhere, and universally preferred to the bank issues which hitherto have been the main carrency of the country Foreign observers, who, in the hour of our danger and our perplexity, predicted, with brazen confi-dence, that our 'bubble' would burst within a few weeks, are now driven to confess that we have revolutionized the science of finance and achieved a success which no European government could venture to attempt. The Canadian ministry are about to try the experiment of following our example. The government organ - the Quebec Mora-

bankruptey of the United States, now says:

The manner in which the federal government has piloted the Northern States through the financial difficulties of the war is not the ideast suggestive of the lessons we are called to study. Public bankruptey was predicted as an inevitable consequence of the enormous expenditure rendered necessary by the conflict. The London money market, it was said, would be closed against the federal administration; no loan could be negotiated in its behalf; and the occurrence of a general financial collapse was indicated as a result not distant. What is the fact, however? Why, that the North has sosiained a war outlay almost unprecedented in amount without evincing a sign of exhaustion. It has not been found necessary to cross the Atlantic in search of accommodation. The States have themselvas furnished the means required, and are prepared to furnish more, if more be wanted. May not Canada profit by the example? Why not berrow a leaf from Mr. Chase's book, and mitigate the business pressure of war by a resort to war money? As whatever is wanted is wanted for use amongst ourselves, why may not Mr. Howland, like Mr. Chase, issue paper money to the extent computed? As the counterpart of Treasury notes, why not issue $5,000,000 of Exchequer notes, or what Mr. Buchanan terms Exchequer stamps, making them a legal tender? The bankers of New York, Philadelphia and Boston met Mr. Chase in a cordial consultation, strengthening his hands as far as was practicable, and adapting his plans to the wants and interests of the community. So should it be in Canada.

Whether the experiment which has been so suc-

Whether the experiment which has been so successfully tried here will work as well in the British provinces, remains to be seen. The Canadian banks, in the event the ministry decides to issue paper money, will of course suspend specie pay ments. We may probably look for a run upon these banks within a short period, as their specie resources are limited in proportion to their liabilities, and Canadian speculators will naturally want to take advantage of the probable premium on gold.

The money market is, if possible, easier than it was a week ago. Leading houses are compelled to decline to receive large amounts of money at 3 per cent, and everybody can borrow at 4. Mercantile paper sells at 4 a 5 per cent, and is very scarce. Certificates of public indebtedness are worth 1001/2. Demand notes-the old issue of green backs-are quoted 101% a 102, having advanced about 1 per cent in the last three days. The advance was predicated on a rumor that Mr. Chase was about to call in these green backs by offering to exchange for them 7.30 notes, new worth 105%. At the Sub-Treasury here, nothing is known of the policy determined upon at the Department. Mr. Cisco states positively that he has made no negotiation of any kind with any one on the subject, and has received no instructions to negotiate. The sooner the Department calls in the various miscellaneous issues of green backs, two year notes, 3.65 notes, &c., and replaces them by a uniform legal tender currency, the better. At the same time we cannot see any reason why government should give 7.30 notes, worth 105%, for demand notes, which would be merely worth par were it not that they are receivable for duties. Whatever is done in the matter will probably be done publicly, after advertisement, so that if any money be made, the public will have an opportunity of participating in the operation.

The following table shows the course of the stock market for the past week and month:-Toledo 46 4614 44 44% Panama 1295 129 1314 Hudson River 433 43 434 444 Pacific Maii 1154c.d.1154 1134 1154

The course of the stock market last week was upward until Friday morning; a decline then set in, which lasted till yesterday afternoon, when a rally took place. Prices are considerably better in most instances than they were a week ago; the decline of Friday, which was mainly due to sales to realize profits, bears no proportion to the previous advance. No change has taken place in the general features of the market, or in the elements which have caused the advance of the past few weeks. Money is still as abundant as it ever was; the amount of money which is accumulating here, in search of employment, is increasing daily, and nothing has occurred to shake public confidence in the market. The law which governs the prices of stocks is very simple indeed, and no one who has studied finance can mistake it. An ingenious correspondent expresses it in the formula: the price of any given stock is to par as the dividend it pays is to the market value of money. This formula, owever must be corrected the chapter of accidents which may unexpectedly diminish the dividend paid on the stock in question, and, secondly, to make allowance for a possible advance in the value of money. If, for instance, the formula were assumed to be absolutely just, it would apply to New York Central as fol lows, assuming money to be worth 4 per cent at present:- 6 : 4 :: 150 : 100 In other words, New York Central should be worth $150 a share. Applied to Pacific Mail, the result would be 20 : 4 :: 500 : 100

That is to say, Pacific Mail shares should be worth $500 each. But, in each of these cases, allowance must be made for the chapter of un foreseen accidents and an unforeseen advance in the value of money; so that it may safely be predicted that Central will not sell at 150, or Pacific Mail at 500, though they may perhaps both comnand much higher prices than those now ruling.

Foreign exchange closed yesterday firm at 114% 115 for sterling, and 4.91% a 93% for francs, bankers' bills in both instance. Messrs. Belmont & Co., the leading drawers on Paris, ask 4.90 for their sixty day bills. Gold is worth 104. For severeigns $5 10 have been paid. In view of the condition of our foreign trade—the increase in our exports, and our moderate importations bills ought to fall rather than rise. The advance of the past week has been chiefly due to the rise in gold, which again has been occasioned by the withdrawal from the market of a large number of prominent sellers. When the government first resorted to the issue of paper money, foreign houses, judging from past experience, made haste to purchase gold, both for cash and on time, expecting to see it sell at 10 a 20 per cent premium. A few shrewd houses in Wall street, examining the case from a more purely American point of view, and arguing that the holders of coin would not be satisfied to have it lie idle for any considerable period of time, supplied the demand, and contracted to deliver all the gold which the foreign firms wanted. The result of the operation has thus far been profitable to the seliers and unprofitable to the buyers, the interest account having more than balanced the advance in specie. Within a few days circumstances have led to the withdrawal from the market-of some leading bears in gold, and the premium has advanced in consequence.

The net earnings, over and above all expenditures, of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad Company for the three months ending May 13 were $207,395. The total net profits for the year ending December, 1861, were $1,928, 196, which is remarkable in view of the drawbacks consequent on the rebellion. The spring months do generally far less business than the later months of the year.

The earnings of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy Railroad line were:-
